Man Without A Kitchen

by Herb Fluke

Restaurant Week has crossed the Hudson River to NJ—for the first ever Hudson Restaurant Week. From January 24th through February 4th (excluding the weekend of January 29-30), participating restaurants in Jersey City, Hoboken, Weehawken and North Bergen will be offering 3-course prix-fixe lunches for a tasty $15.05 and dinners for $30.05 (beverage, tax and gratuity excluded).

Restaurants included in Hudson Restaurant Week are: 3Forty Grill, 4Fifty5, Baja, Cafe Newport, Casa Dante, Comfort, Confucius, Edwards Steakhouse, Illuzion, Komegashi, Liberty House, The Merchant, The Quays, Sabor, South City Grill, Spirito Grill, and Trinity. Diners will also be entered for every meal to win two round-trip tickets in the continental United States from Orbitz.com. Complete details and list of restaurants can be found at www.hudsonrestaurantweek.com.

"Hudson Restaurant Week offers New Jerseyans the opportunity to sample the variety of fine dining establishments without going to New York," said Tamara Remedios, Hudson Restaurant Week organizer and owner of Get Out Hudson magazine. The event was created through discussions with local restaurants and fleshed out over the past few months. It has received great support by the participating restaurants and communities, and in fact, the event has received funding by the New Jersey Commerce, Economic Growth and Tourism Commission through their Marketing Sponsorship Program. The 10-day event is designed to promote Hudson County as a premier dining destination and is co-sponsored by Newport, Orbitz.com, RestaurantPassion.com and Get Out Hudson.
